Occasioned by BASics:
A Celebration of Revolution
& the Vision of A New World

April 2011 marked the release of BASics, a book by Bob Avakian, the revolutionary leader who has developed a new synthesis of communism. On this occasion, a range of artists, musicians, dancers and actors from a diversity of perspectives came together in a unique cultural event to celebrate revolution and the vision of a new world.

This film will tell the story of what those artists did and why they did it. It will bring a taste of the remarkable connection between these artists and the hundreds in the audience that night.

For everyone who has dreamed of a different and better world or wondered how art and culture can be part of creating it, this is a film that needs to be seen.

But it won't be made without your support.
