A 29-minute video, Kony 2012, aimed at fanning outrage against Joseph Kony, head of a Ugandan guerrilla group, has recently gone viral on the web and social media, viewed more than 112 million times in a single week. Share this poster on Facebook and put it up wherever people are talking about this, and on April 20 when Kony 2012 posters will appear.

Why is this man being called a war criminal...

Joseph Kony -- a warlord, the head of the Lord's Resistance Army, a Ugandan guerrilla group; has ordered the abduction of children to become soldiers; has committed murders and other atrocities.

And this woman is not?

After more than a decade of U.S.-orchestrated economic sanctions against Iraq that set the stage for the U.S. invasion in 2003, a reporter asked then U.S. Secretary of State Madeleine Albright: "We have heard that half a million children have died...is the price worth it?" Albright replied, "We think the price is worth it."

Why do you think this army could possibly do any good in Africa?

Would you call on someone like John Wayne Gacy, who sexually assaulted and murdered at least 33 teenage boys, to protect young boys?

Why do you see Kony as a killer but not people like Jerry Falwell who promote genocidal policies in Africa?

During the 1990s, 250 people were dying from AIDS every hour in Africa. Christian Fascists like Jerry Falwell called AIDS God's judgment on promiscuity and only supported U.S. AIDS programs in Africa that focused on abstinence and outlawed condoms. In 2004 a documentary filmmaker who traveled to Uganda reported that some AIDS programs were no longer promoting condoms for fear of losing their funding. The U.S. was the single largest donor to AIDS prevention in Uganda, and much of the aid was being dispensed through religiousbased groups. The filmmaker said in the based groups. The filmmaker said in the first two years since the U.S.-funded focus on abstinence, Uganda's rate of HIV infection had nearly doubled.* *Uganda: The Condom Controversy, Frontline World, PBS, July 13, 2007. (http://www.pbs.org/frontlineworld/ rough/2007/07/uganda_the_cond.html)

The bodies of several men and a child killed by a U.S. soldier in Panjwai, Afghanistan on March 11, 2012.