

"There are too many leaders who claim solidarity with Madiba's [Mandela's] struggle for freedom, but do not tolerate dissent from their own people."

U.S. President Barack Obama at memorial for Nelson Mandela, December 10, 2013

Below: Firing tear gas and rubber bullets, police attack an Occupy Oakland march on January 28, 2012. Over 400 demonstrators were arrested. Words of concern from Barack Obama were never uttered.
